

It would be ridiculous if the weather and traffic stations were removed from XM Radio. Many listeners that I know and myself use the weather and traffic channels regularly just as we use to on FM & AM radio. Basically once you listen to XM you can't go back to FM & AM because the amount of advertising and unnecessary things you have to listen just annoys the hell out of you. I pay for my monthly subscription to XM therefore I should be entitled to weather and traffic or any other channel that I want that is offered. The FCC needs to back off of such petty issues when there are real problems in the world.
